Benefit sanctions

The number of sanctions issued during the March 2026 quarter was 12,582, a decrease of 903 or 6.7 percent from the March 2025 quarter.

During the March 2026 quarter, the main reasons for unfulfilled work obligation sanctions were clients not attending appointments including seminar appointments (8,829 sanctions) and failing to prepare for work (3,075 sanctions).

A sanction is a reduction in a person's benefit that may occur if they do not fulfil their work obligations, work prep or social obligations. Clients have 5 working days to either arrange to re-comply or dispute their failure (by either providing a good and sufficient reason for not meeting obligations or asking MSD to review the decision). Benefit recipients who have not fulfilled their obligations may have their sanctions overturned so long as they re-comply or provide additional information.

The Traffic Light System is now used to track how clients are meeting their obligations. Clients that have obligations and are meeting them are at Green, those who have failed an obligation and are in the five working day dispute period are at Orange and those with an active sanction are at Red.

At the end of March 2026, in the Traffic Light System there were 344,142 clients at Green, 2,106 clients at Orange and 3,804 clients at Red.

Sanctions can affect benefit recipients in a number of ways, depending on their circumstances and the number of times they have had a sanction over the last 12 months. There are three types of sanctions: a reduction in benefit, suspension, or cancellation.
